Focus on...

AMAZING ANIMALS.

'Black Beauty' is a story that is told by a horse. We know that animals can't really speak. But it is also true that they can do some things much better than us. Here are some examples:

Elephants: Smell

Elephants can smell much better than us. This is useful when a mother elephant needs to find her children. She knows where her babies are, just by the smell. Even if they are quite far away. Some people say that elephants can also understand feelings through smell. They know if a man is friendly or not, by being able to smell them.

Dogs: Hearing

Dogs can hear very well. They know when you are coming home – long before you get to the front door. We can hear about six metres away. Dog can hear things much better. They can hear something when it is twenty-four metres away.

Eagles: Sight

An eagle can see eight times better than us. A Golden Eagle, for example, can see a rabbit from a mile away. They need to see well to find their food. Their eyes are very big, so they can see a lot of things that we can't.

Cows: Taste

Cows can taste very well. They eat grass and plants. For this reason it is important for them to know what they can eat, and what they can't eat. They have to be careful not to eat things that will make them ill.
